FIRST WEEK, 5 EGGS; SECOND, 72; THIRD, 104

Hens Showed Steady Egg Gain for Mrs. Pierce in Winter Weather.

"The week before we tried Don Sung, we got 5 eggs, from 50 hens. The next week, from a 25-cent package of Don Sung, we got 72 eggs, and the next week 104. Some of our hens are more pullets and Don Sung has started them laying."—Mrs. B. F. Pierce, R. F. D. 1, Butler, Tenn.

Mrs. Pierce selected a severe time for her test—the middle of January. Yet she started getting the eggs promptly. Your hens can lay well in cold weather, and we'll move it. Here's our offer:

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it plays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be promptly refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) works directly on the egg-laying organs, and is also a splendid tonic. It is easily given in the feed, improves the hen's health, makes her stronger and more active in any weather, and starts her laying.

Try Don Sung for 30 days and if it doesn't get you the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather, your money will be refunded by return mail. Get Don Sung from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer or send 50 cents for a package by mail prepaid. Burwell-Tucker Co., 383 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind. adv.

Victim Of Grade Crossing Collision Dies Of Injuries

Edward Stewart, 842 Thomas street, died at St. Joseph's hospital Tuesday afternoon from injuries received early Tuesday morning, when the Rannon Coal and Ice company wagon he was driving, was struck by an L. & N. switch engine at a street crossing. Stewart was 37 years of age.

Examination at the hospital disclosed that his left arm was crushed, his left thigh broken and all his ribs on the left side smashed in. One rib penetrated Stewart's left lung. Stewart's left arm was amputated at the shoulder shortly after his arrival at the hospital.

Stewart, who had been with the ice firm for two years, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Jessie P. Stewart, and a sister. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

"DEATH AN ILLUSION," THEOSOPHIST'S THEME

"There is no death. Death is birth into a more subtle, a less dense sphere of matter. In fact, death as we think of it is the greatest illusion possible. What we call death is laying aside our densest outer body, as a man might lay aside his overcoat," declared Francis G. Hanchett, national lecturer for the Theosophical society, in his talk, "Life After Death," at the Concert hall, Woman's building, last night. Mr. Hanchett was formerly assistant United States attorney at Chicago. He lectured in Memphis under the auspices of the Memphis Theosophical society.

COLONIAL PLANS NEW CLUB HOUSE

Edifice to Cost $125,000 Will Replace Building Destroyed by Fire.

Plans for the construction of a $125,000 clubhouse to replace that of the Colonial Country club, which burned Tuesday morning, were discussed Wednesday night by the directors of the club at a meeting held at the Chamber of Commerce.

Work on the proposed clubhouse will begin as early as possible, according to Sam F. McDonald, president. It is the hope of the club members to have the new structure ready for the opening of the social season early next fall. The new clubhouse, which would be much larger than the building which burned, will be located near the site of the old structure, just off Poplar pike, near White Station. Mr. McDonald declared Wednesday that increase in size and possible differences in design would necessitate some slight change in location. The old clubhouse cost about $40,000.

"We intend to erect a clubhouse," said Mr. McDonald Wednesday, "that will be the equal of any in the South. It will be on architectural lines similar to all country clubs and will be as modern as it is possible to make it."

Work on converting a cottage at the club into temporary quarters for the golfers was started Wednesday. This cottage recently was used by Paul Anderson, the club's golf professional, as a workshop. Previously it was used by golfers who kept their clubs there before completion of the locker rooms in the clubhouse.

Mr. McDonald declares that the cottage will be ready for use within the next day or so. He said that conveniences would not be the best, but that the enthusiastic golfer will not let such a condition halt his activity in the ancient Scottish game.

In addition to Mr. McDonald the following are directors: W. W. Coulson, T. Dooley, Will J. Prescott, Sam J. House, Ed C. Kiser, Geo. W. Jones and Eugene A. Wood.

Joe Burney Walks; Auto Thieves Still Have His Flivver

It's getting to be pretty tough when automobile thieves steal the "flivver" of the chief of police. But that's what a nifty thief pulled on Chief Joe Burney Tuesday night.

The chief called on friends last night. He parked the 11 "flivver" at Belvidere boulevard and Union avenue. When he prepared to go home he had to get another machine, for his was gone.

The car bore license No. 78156, and the motor number is 292308. The thief already has eluded it off.

Once upon a time thieves actually blew the police station safe and got away with the cash and valuables deposited in it as taken from prisoners or deposited as forfeit. It was when they were certain, he beat soundly every time he saw them until he ran them out of town.

Chief Burney had company in his plight Tuesday night. A. C. Cleaves, 2438 1/2 N. Main, lost his 5-passenger Ford, No. 24382; John Adler, 1560 Court avenue, his 5-passenger Lexington, No. 26106; and A. J. Moon, 183 South Indlester street, his 5-passenger Ford, No. 15582.

High School Girls Will Care For Poor Families Christmas

BY MEMORY MCCORD.

Everybody knows that a high school girl is a privileged person, and that she's expected to be a little giddy-gay about it. Nobody censures her particularly about it.

Not that mother doesn't worry about the "horrible" way "daughters" arrange her hair and father doesn't have 50 fits about the slang she picks up from the Lord knows where. Oh, yes, it greatly annoys them, and as for principals and teachers, who expect them to be forever angelic and uncomplaining. Still—

It came as a thunderbolt, Ouida Herold's announcement to 91 class, 104 Central high school, that "the girls are a whole province for one 'down-and-out' family during the Christmas holidays. Not that high school girls aren't particularly charitable—the are when they see something pathetic or stop to think about it."

"It's like this," 16-year-old Ouida explained, "at a poor little cottage down on Louisiana street lives a paralyzed mother with four little kiddies. The father is dead and an old and almost infirm grandfather provides for the little family. Rheumatism has crept into the old man's joints, he's 72—and, girls, they need everything. Let's give it to them."

On a rear seat in a corner of the room sat a wonderfully fortunate little maiden. Great gray eyes stared out of her pretty, rounded face and a diamond glinted on one of the fingers that twisted her gingham dress.

"Go to it," she shouted, astounded even herself. So that's how it happened, or rather how it began. And now that Christmas is approaching 5-1 class 104 can think of little else. Down in the sewing room more than one doll baby is being dressed, and in the cooking class six young girls are busy with their sugar, buttered in turpentine and sugar.

"I don't care," the young lady says stubbornly, "that's a fine fruit cake I'd say it is."

And if corridors and office, girls are beseeching teachers and principals. Please let us do it, too. We want to care for a poor family during the holidays. We'll make all the clothes and things and carry them out ourselves, just as 5-1 class 104 is doing.

"All right," says Principal Lester, quoting the little girl with the diamond upon her finger, "Go to it," and "please," he grumbles, "if I don't feel like I'm running an associated charity."

BIND OVER CHAUFFEUR WHO RAN DOWN GIRL

R. S. Page, Yellow Cab company chauffeur who ran down and killed 11-year-old Margaret Townsend last Thursday, was held to the state on a charge of manslaughter Tuesday afternoon, when he faced Judge L. T. Fitzhugh in city court. Mary Vogt, who was with Margaret when she was killed, testified in city court.

Margaret Townsend was the daughter of Charles J. Townsend, 1022 Lane avenue, a city fireman.
